ORAL JUDGEMENT

This appeal is preferred by the State under sec. 378(1)(2) of Cr.P.Code against the judgment and order of acquittal passed by the learned Judicial Magistrate, First Class, Bayad on 18.6.1998 in Criminal Case No. 715/91. Accused came to be acquitted on the ground that the trial could not be concluded within three years from its commencement and, therefore, in view of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Common Cause Registered Society v/s Union of India, reported in AIR 1996 SC 1619 and subsequent clarificatory orders.

After going through the judgment of the Apex Court referred to above and subsequent clarificatory orders, I am satisfied that the acquittal recorded by the learned Trial Judge is an error and is not in accordance with the principle laid down in the aforesaid decision. This is a case where the Court has never tried to secure presence of the accused. Delay in commencement of trial or its conclusion was caused only because of the accused and there was no lapse on the part of the prosecution. Irrespective of the gravity of the offence, the basic principle of law cannot be ignored and learned Magistrate ought not to have acquitted the accused by passing cursory order without perusing even Rojanama lying before it. Without commenting on the merits or the procedure adopted by the learned Magistrate, in my view, this is a fit case where discretion of this Court should be exercised and matter should be restored back to the learned Magistrate for trial afresh.

Under the circumstances, appeal is allowed. Impugned judgment and order dated 18.6.1998 passed by the learned Judicial Magistrate, First Class, Bayad in Criminal Case No. 715/91 is hereby quashed and set aside. Matter is remanded back and aforesaid criminal case is ordered to be restored on the file of the learned Magistrate concerned for trial afresh and in accordance with law.

Before parting with this order, I would like to state that though other side (original accused) is served, he has not cared to appear in response to the notice issued and served by this Court.
